Raritan Electric Marine Toilets and Manual Marine Toilets

When deciding on a marine toilet there are many factors to consider. Some prefer to not use any electric power and the only choice would be a manual marine toilet. Raritan was the first to introduce a manual marine toilet that uses pressurized fresh water.

Raritan's small foot print Marine Elegance toilet using less water and low power in its class was a first for the Marine Industry. Using Vortex-Vac technology to eliminate remote vacuum pumps is also one of the elements that are unique to Raritan toilets. A unique mounting arrangement offered in Raritan Marine Elegance is another first in the boating industry. Raritan electric toilets utilize a diaphragm pump instead of short life rubber impeller pump for inlet pump is only available on Raritan toilets.

Raritan Atlantes Freedom

The original one piece marine toilet. Raritan was the first to develop a one piece china bowl that contained all necessary components to flush and fill the bowl. The Atlantes has gone through a number of transitions over the years but remains a highly reliable toilet that offers your guests the comforts of home.

Raritan Marine Elegance

Designed to fit in tight spaces with a one-piece china bowl allowing installation on "the step" in most head areas. The efficient macerator is the same that is used in the Atlantes and boasts the Vortex-Vac technology. Vortex-Vac macerator systems easily pull waste out of the bowl in an extremely efficient action with fewer moving parts.

Raritan SeaEra

The SeaEra "original" is a toilet that has an integral intake pump at the back of the motor. This means a single motor is always running both the intake and the discharge at the same time. For those wanting freshwater or a remote intake pump see the SeaEra QC.
